#22 Greatest Wildcat of All Time: Al Fleming

7 Comments

Doug Brodess

PGU is counting down our 25 greatest Wildcats of all time. To see the honorable mention and how the rankings are formulated, click here.

#25: Hassan Adams (35.08 points)

#24: Sean Rooks (35.29 points)

#23: Anthony Cook (35.74 points)

#22: Al Fleming (37.31 points)

Time as a Wildcat

How is it that Al Fleming was such a good player, and yet only the most rabid and knowledgeable U of A fan knows much about him? Over 35 years after his playing days at U of A have come to an end, Al Fleming's name is still all over the Arizona Record Book.

He is the Wildcats' all-time career rebounding leader (1,190 boards) and led the team in field goal percentage in each of his four seasons.

Fleming, who ended his career as Arizona's all-time leading scorer with 1,765 points, is now ranked No. 10.

He is No. 5 in field goals made (688), No. 5 in career field goal percentage (58.3 percent) and No. 4 in career rebound average (10.4 rpg),

He is one of three players (along with Joe Skaisgir and Damon Stoudamire) to score 33 points in one half and one of three players (along with Brian Williams and Khalid Reeves) to make all of his field goal attempts (min. 10 attempts) in a single game (10-for-10) against Midwestern, 12/1/1975.

The 6'7" power forward has the second highest season shooting percentage of all time (66.7 percent; 136-of-204; in the 73-74 season). His 41 point outburst against Detroit in 1976 puts him among six Wildcat players to have scored 40 points or more in a single game.

For his outstanding performance, Fleming was an All Western Athletic Conference selection three times and selected as the 1976 WAC Player of the Year his senior season.

Career After Arizona

Fleming was selected by the Phoenix Suns in the second round (30th overall) of the 1976 NBA Draft. Though he never played for the Suns, he was a member of the Seattle Super Sonics when they played in the NBA Finals in 1977-78.

Following his brief NBA tour, Fleming saw the world while he played for pro teams in Sweden, Italy, Israel, Portugal and Uruguay. He retired from the sport in 1982.

Legacy

Great motor. Tireless worker. Relentless rebounder... During his four seasons at Arizona, the Wildcats compiled a 81-33 record, and advanced to the Elite Eight in 1976.

After a five year battle with kidney cancer, Fleming died at the age of 49 in 2003.

The Huskies are "out-willing" us today. Zeus has been man handled all afternoon and or combined front-court play has been weak...so many missed

This is 100% true.

Before the private forum, I would scour the net, read every thread etc. Now, I just read the nuggets in the PF, and it

I think AZ can limit CJ Wilcox with a Johnson & Hollis-Jefferson combo on defense but the match up...

I'm kind of predicting AG will have a big game. I think he will want to bring down the house...

Tardbus, NativeB and dabest1002 like this.

It was always interesting watching Al play. He never seemed to be playing that well, then at halftime you would see that he was having another great game. He was always consistent and had a complete game, was a perfect teammate to Bird, Harris, Money, Popcorn... His work on the boards was fun to watch, he would scrap for every rebound.

Great to see him make the list.

Wow, Al flemming, a name that still rebounds in the rafters of AZ. Read another article that he was ill. Good to know that I Wildcats on this list are not contempoary. Reminds us that we've had good players for a long time.

Was the other article written in 2002? You read THIS article, right? If you did, did you miss the part where he passed away in May 2003?

So sad he died way too young. It's nice to see he made this list.

I hope this is the game that Zeus has his "breakout" game.
I'm thinking something like 20/8/2...
