infielder. It's all about communication. I would not say I'm happy, I want to win, but we were much improved over last year's first game."

Although there were 17 runs scored between the two teams, Monday's game seemed more of a pitchers' duel with the wind blowing into the infield. Until she had to leave after the fifth inning with a sore wrist, Wood Memorial senior pitcher Haley Settle, a Frontier College signee, allowed only one earned run while striking out five and allowing only one walk. Her performance was only matched by Goforth, who also allowed only one earned run during her six at-bats, complete game performance. "We were both striking people out and our defenses were working for us," Goforth said. "It helped some of my pitches spin, but others it did not help at all. I'm happy with my performance and I'm glad I could help my team out. I knew everyone was cheering for me and I knew I could do it."

The Lady Tigers look to pick up their fourth win Wednesday when they host Vincennes Lincoln at 5 p.m. The Lady Trojans will seek their first when they

Former IU star Archie Dees dies at age 80

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Archie Dees never strayed far from his Indiana roots. After starting on the basketball court at Indiana, he made Bloomington his home and continued to advise players almost half a century after he graduated.

On Monday morning, the Hoosiers lost one of their biggest former stars when Dees, the first two-time Big Ten Conference MVP, died at the age of 80. His daughter, Lori Dees Johnson, announced the death on her Facebook account. School officials confirmed it and issued a statement from coach Tom Crean.

"Archie Dees will be remembered for many great things and being a part of Indiana basketball royalty will be one of them," Crean said. "When Archie was around, we always knew we were around one of the all-time best."

The native of Elletts, Mississippi, became a prep star in Mount Carmel, Illinois, where he scored more than 2,000 points in his career. He took that up to a notch at Indiana.

Dees averaged 25.4 points and 14.4 rebounds in 1957 when he led the Hoosiers to a conference title and won his first MVP award. The next year, he did it again, averaging 25.1 points and 14.1 rebounds — numbers that still rank among the top five single-season totals in Hoosiers' history — en route to a second straight conference crown and MVP honor.

At a time the college landscape was littered with big-time stars, ranging from Walt Chamberlain and Edgely Baylor to Oscar Robertson and Jerry West, Dees was named a three-team All-American as a junior and to the second team as a senior. When he finished his career with the Hoosiers, Dees was ranked fourth in career rebounding (910), 10th in career field goal attempts (1,522) and ninth in career free-throw percentage (82.0).

He was selected by the Cincinnati Royals with the No. 2 overall pick in the 1958 NBA draft and played four seasons in the league with the Royals, Detroit Pistons, Chicago Packers and St. Louis Hawks as well as spending one season with the Cleveland Pipers of the American Basketball League.

And though his professional success did not mirror what he did in college, Dees' legacy at Indiana continues to live on. He was inducted into the school's Hall of Fame in 1982 and was named to the Hoosiers' all-century team in 2001.

"Sad to hear about the passing of Archie Dees. He taught a lot of us what it meant to be an Indiana Hoosier," Michael Lewis

Michigan State assistant coach Dine Pile, who played on Indiana's 2000 national runner-up team, and another former Indiana player, North Carolina-Greensboro assistant Mike Roberts, expressed their condolences on Twitter.

"God got a truly beautiful angel in him. As much as I will miss him I know he is in a better place. No more pain, sickness, needles, tubes, or death," Dees Johnson wrote on Facebook. "I am happy about that at least. I just will miss him so much."

Services for Dees were scheduled for Saturday at 2 p.m. at First United Methodist Church in Bloomington.

and play well together. We have a really deep team and I'm really pleased with our play this far."

The junior varsity team also won 9-2 after with Sami Pursell winning 6-4 and doubles teams Isabel Gruebel and Lexi Birch as well as Hannah Reinbrecht and Julia Diermeier each picking up wins. "It's really good to get off to a great start, especially against good competition," Deebord said. "Cade is very tough and well coached. Our girls really persevered tonight.
